INTRODUCTION

There is a large body of knowledge, including new brain research, about the importance of early childhood. We know that the foundation of a child's health and character is established during the early years of life. If children do not have opportunities early in life for normal development of their minds, bodies, and relationships with others, it becomes increasingly difficult to make it up to them later. There is no second chance at childhood, and the future of this state depends on the healthy physical, mental, and emotional growth and development of today's children.

It was with this in mind that the State of Oregon enacted statutes and administrative rules which govern the operation of child care facilities in the state. Oregon Administrative Rules (OAR) 414-300-0000 through 414-300-0415 are the minimum requirements for the licensing of Certified Child Care Centers. The purpose of these rules is to protect the health, safety, and well-being of children when cared for in Certified Child Care Centers in the state.

The Office of Child Care, with the assistance of center directors, the Oregon Association for the Education of Young Children (OAEYC), the Oregon Association of Child Care Directors (OACCD), state resource and referral agencies, the former Commission for Child Care, the former local Commissions on Children and Families, the Oregon Center for Career Development in Childhood Care and Education, and a number of state agencies involved in child care developed these administrative rules. They reflect the conviction that regardless of the setting, children have common needs for and deserve a safe and healthy environment, adequate facilities and equipment, a defined program of activities, and competent caregivers.
